Since 1983 NEA Member Benefits and Bank of America have worked together to support initiatives important to members like you — from philanthropic support of the NEA Foundation, NEA Healthy Futures, and the Disaster Relief Fund to additional member benefits and resources.

Bank of America is a major supporter of the NEA Foundation, donating over $1.3M since 2004 for the Salute to Excellence in Education Gala and the Foundation’s Grants to Educators Program which fund approximately 120 projects throughout the country each year to enable educators to develop their professional practices and improve student learning.

- Darren H., a high school social studies teacher from Maryland, purchased tablets to pilot a new course introducing September 11th to students too young to remember it.
- Sabrina C., an intervention specialist from Ohio, used her grant to build a tower garden system in order to help students with autism learn vocational skills, healthy eating habits and life science.
- Stephanie R., a remedial math teacher in Virginia, created three unique stations for her students using iPads and data folders to help students track their learning.

Over the past five years, Bank of America has contributed $750,000 to the NEA Member Benefits Disaster Relief Fund. Bank of America’s generous contributions have helped NEA members devastated by natural disasters.

- Louisiana Association of Educators members were devastated by flooding in August 2016. To help, NEA Member Benefits and Bank of America joined together to lend a hand, donating $10,000 in the form of $100 gift cards.
- When members of the Texas State Teachers Associations were impacted by Hurricane Harvey in September 2017, NEA Member Benefits and Bank of America gave $100,000 in emergency funds — over 400 TSTA members received assistance.
- Also in September 2017, Florida Education Association members had to deal with the aftermath of Hurricane Irma. NEA Member Benefits and Bank of America gave a total of $200,000 directly to members in need.
